Employer contributions cannot be made into a Spouse Account.

As an active Triple S member you are able to create a Triple S account for your spouse. An eligible spouse is a legal spouse or putative spouse of a Triple S member.

Spouse/putative spouse

For a partner to be recognised as a putative spouse of a member, they need to satisfy the requirements under the Southern State Superannuation Act 2009 (conditions apply).

In general terms, the person must have been living with their partner as husband and wife de facto (or with the distinguishing characteristics of a married couple in the case of same sex couples) and have either:

- lived continuously with the member for the preceding three years, or
- lived with the member for an aggregate period of three out of the preceding four years, or
- a child born of the relationship of whom both partners are the natural parents.

A person will also be recognised as a putative spouse of the member if in a Registered Relationship with the member (within the meaning of the Relationships Register Act 2016).

The components of a Spouse Account

A Spouse Account will be made up of a maximum of three components:

- a Spouse Contribution Account, which will receive personal after-tax contributions made by the spouse member and eligible contributions made by the Triple S member in favour of their spouse
- a Rollover Account, which will receive all eligible rollovers from complying super funds and all payments received through contribution splitting (see the Triple S Grow Your Super fact sheet for more information)

- a Co-contribution Account, which will receive any Commonwealth Government co-contributions.

Contributing to a Spouse Account

A Spouse Account for a spouse member can be established by:

- a spouse contribution made by the Triple S member (minimum $50), or
- a contribution split from the Triple S member's account on behalf of their spouse (minimum $50).

Once established, a Spouse Account will accept:

- a contribution split from the Triple S member's account on behalf of their spouse (minimum $50)
- personal after-tax member contributions (minimum $50)
- eligible spouse contributions (minimum $50)
- Commonwealth Government co-contributions
- rollovers from complying super funds.

There is a cap of $100,000 each financial year on the total amount that can be contributed after tax to your super, which includes any contributions paid by the Triple S member and spouse member. A spouse member under age 65 can bring forward the limit for two years to contribute up to $300,000 in one year¹.

Spouse members can no longer contribute to a Spouse Account if the Triple S member has ceased employment.

Employer contributions cannot be made into a Spouse Account.

¹ Subject to transitional arrangements. Please visit www.ato.gov.au for more information

Investment choice

Spouse members have the same investment options as all Triple S members. See the Investment Choice fact sheet for more information.

Insurance options for spouse members

- Standard Insurance cover, or
- Fixed Benefit Insurance cover

Key points about spouse members insurance include:

- The maximum insurance cover a spouse member can hold is $1,500,000.
- Income Protection Insurance and Total and Permanent Disablement Insurance is not available to spouse members.
- The premium for this cover is deducted from the Spouse Account.
- Spouse members need to complete a personal health statement when applying for Death Only Insurance. If the application is accepted, there may be limitations applied to the cover for any medical conditions.

Standard Death Only Insurance

Value of Standard Death Only Insurance

The value of a unit of Standard Insurance is linked to the spouse member’s age. Once the spouse member reaches age 35, the value of a unit gradually decreases each year.

For example, if you are aged 34, one unit is worth $75,000, but at age 45, one unit is worth $42,000.

Age-related unit values are provided in the table on the right. You can see how the entitlement value of a unit decreases with age.

Conditions may apply to additional units purchased at a later date.

Cost of Standard Death Only Insurance

Standard Death Only Insurance costs $0.50 per unit per week. Therefore, two units of Standard Insurance will cost $1 per unit per week and so on.

The cost and level of cover are reviewed every three years and may change due to claims experience.

Fixed Benefit Death Only Insurance

Value of Fixed Benefit Death Only Insurance cover

Fixed Benefit Insurance cover provides a fixed lump sum insurance entitlement in the event of the Spouse member’s death.

With Fixed Benefit Insurance, the value of the insurance does not decrease with the Spouse member’s age. Each unit is worth $10,000.

Cost of Fixed Benefit Death Only Insurance cover

The cost of Fixed Benefit Insurance is based on your current age. Refer to the table on the right for costs of Fixed Benefit Insurance.

The cost and level of cover are reviewed every three years and may change due to claims experience.

Duration of Death Only Insurance

Death Only Insurance will cease once:

- the spouse member reaches age 70 for Standard and Fixed Benefit Insurance or age 65 for Fixed Insurance (closed to new applications since November 2014), or
- the Triple S member has ceased employment with the SA public sector, or
- the Triple S member has transferred their benefit out of Triple S, or
- the balance of the Spouse Account is reduced to zero and the insurance cost can no longer be deducted², or
- the spouse member is no longer the spouse of the Triple S member, or
- the spouse account is closed.

²The spouse member’s cover ceases at the end of the month following the month in which the last insurance premium was debited from the Spouse Account.

Fixed Insurance (closed to new applications since November 2014)

Members are no longer able to apply for Fixed Insurance units of cover. However, members who had Fixed Insurance prior to the cessation of this offering on 13 November 2014 retain their current level of cover.

Members with Fixed Insurance can only increase their level of cover by cancelling their Fixed Insurance and transferring to either:

- Standard Death Only Insurance, or
- Fixed Benefit Death Only Insurance.

These insurance products are explained in the Triple S Death and TPD & Death Only fact sheet which is available to download from the Super SA website.

Members with Fixed Insurance also have the option of decreasing their level of Fixed Insurance. You cannot mix units of Fixed Insurance with any other types of cover at the same time. Members should be aware that unlike Fixed Insurance, the value of Standard Insurance cover decreases over time and Fixed Benefit Insurance premiums increase over time.

Members with Fixed Insurance who wish to change their level of cover must use the Triple S Apply and Change Spouse Death Insurance form which is available to download from the website.

Fixed Insurance ceases at age 65. Alternatively, Fixed Insurance cover can be transferred to the Standard or Fixed Benefit Insurance options prior to turning age 65 and that new cover will continue to age 70.

You can transfer your existing level of cover to Standard or Fixed Benefit Insurance at a value that is close to but not exceeding your current level of cover at any time without having to provide medical information and any existing limitations will continue to apply. However, if you want to increase your level of insurance, you will need to apply and provide medical information (limitations may apply to additional units).

Spouse member entitlements

Payment of entitlements

Spouse member entitlements can only be released when one of the following occurs:

- the Triple S member has ceased employment with the SA public sector³, or
- the Triple S member has transferred their benefit out of Triple S, or
- the spouse member is no longer the spouse of the Triple S member³, or
- the Triple S member has received an Early Access to Super entitlement³, or
- the spouse member suffers physical or mental disablement and the Super SA Board approves the release of the claim, or
- the spouse member has reached age 65, or
- the spouse member dies.

Death entitlements

Spouse members have the option to nominate a legal personal representative (estate) with Super SA. This means that, in the event of their death, their death benefit will be paid to their Estate and distributed according to the Will or Statutes. Refer to the Binding Death Benefit Nomination - Legal Personal Representative fact sheet for more information.

If a legal personal representative (estate) has not been nominated, the death benefit will be paid to their spouse/putative spouse or, if there is no spouse/putative spouse, to their Estate.

At the date of the member’s death, evidence of the spouse/putative spouse’s relationship with the late member will be required. Please refer to the Application for Payment in Relation to a Deceased Member form for additional information about requirements.

The death entitlement is made up of:

- the balance of the Spouse Account, plus
- investment earnings, plus
- an insurance component (if any)
- minus any outstanding fees and premiums.

Disablement entitlements

Should the spouse member become totally and permanently disabled, the spouse member may apply to the Super SA Board for the release of their entitlement.

If the claim is approved, the spouse member will receive a lump sum comprising:

- the balance of the Spouse Account, plus
- investment earnings
- minus any outstanding fees, charges and premiums.

Spouse members cannot purchase Total and Permanent Disablement Insurance, therefore there is no insurance component payable.

Preservation and Spouse Accounts

All investment earnings and preserved entitlements will remain preserved in Triple S until one of the following events occurs:

- the spouse member reaches preservation age and is genuinely retired from the workforce
- the spouse member ceases an employment arrangement after the age of 60
- the spouse member reaches age 65
- the spouse member becomes totally and permanently disabled and the Super SA Board approves the claim
- the spouse member dies.

The balance not subject to preservation can be taken in cash once a condition of release has been met.

Preservation age depends on the date of birth of the spouse member. See the table below for preservation ages.

Date of birth	Commonwealth Government preservation age
Before 1 July 1960	55
1 July 1960 to 30 June 1961	56
1 July 1961 to 30 June 1962	57
1 July 1962 to 30 June 1963	58
1 July 1963 to 30 June 1964	59
After 30 June 1964	60

³ Payment is subject to the provisions of the Commonwealth’s Superannuation Industry (Supervision) Act and the spouse member having reached their preservation age.

Taxation

For taxation purposes, the spouse member's Eligible Service Period will commence from the earliest Eligible Service Date from all rollovers received into the Spouse Account.

If no rollovers are received, the Eligible Service Date will be the date that the first contribution was received into the Spouse Account.

Rollovers from untaxed funds, plus investment earnings, will not be taxed when received into the Spouse Account. These monies will be taxed in accordance with the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) rules for untaxed funds, upon withdrawal of the spouse member's entitlements from Triple S.

Spouse member's entitlements will be taxed according to the ATO's rules.

Members may be eligible to apply for a tax rebate for making a spouse contribution to the Spouse Account on behalf of the spouse member.

Eligibility to join the Super SA Flexible Rollover Product and the Super SA Income Stream

Spouse members are eligible to join the Super SA Income Stream and the Super SA Flexible Rollover Product as a spouse member, provided they are the spouse of an SA public sector employee scheme
